

THIS IS MY LAST SNIPPETS

It has been quite a while since I since I started my Snippets column, it all began with the “Tank that Got Away” way back in 2009. We were eventually reunited with our tank but to begin with we were only able to find the lid, but a kind farmer came along and was very surprised to see a tank sitting in the middle of the road! Fortunately, he loaded it onto the back of his Ute and took it to Meeniyan Police Station. I do not know if they read my Snippets or not, but they contacted us to let us know that they had had a tank handed into them.

We were extremely pleased to have our tank returned and intact too. Which was a bonus indeed. We were able to fill up the tank with water and place it at the end of our veranda.

That was the beginning of a whole line of Snippet articles on all sorts of subjects – building of the Centre, Art Shows, Markets, Lockdowns, and any news relevant to Sandy Point. Nothing was sacred from the Snippet lady.

But all things must come to an end, so this is my last ‘hurrah’.

Thank You to all that have read Snippets over the years.
